SCHOLARSHIP

JUNE, 2019

Water Resources Science and Technology

The Water Resources Science and Technology (WATR) program has launched a scholarship program offering up to 8 scholarships ($1,000 each) in 2019-2020 for full-time students majoring in WATR. Scholarship application opens on September 15, through the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aids (<http://www.tamusa.edu/scholarships/InstitutionalScholarships.html>) or the department page (coming soon). To be eligible to apply, students must have and maintain a 2.75+ cumulative institutional GPA. Those who have demonstrated both academic success and financial need will be given priority. All questions shall be directed to Prof. Walter Den (wden@tamusa.edu), STEM Building 349D.
